There was quite a brilliant marriage last evening in Meade-Memorial church, when Mr. George Stein, of this city, led to the altar Miss Mary A. Carbough, of Granite, Va., and the two happy young souls plighted their troth and took each other for better or for worse, for weal or for woe.

The church had been most artistically and beautifully decorated with flowers, plants and evergreens, and presented a scene of rare beauty and loveliness as the bridal cortege entered and marched up the right hand aisle. First were the ushers, Messrs. Charles Harnish, best man; Frank Eliley, Lewis Heinal, Arthur Evans, Edward Acree, and William Lamb: then the bride and groom. The pretty ceremony of the Episcopal service was read by Rev. J. J. Clopton.

Mrs. A. C. Harding presided at the organ and played the beautiful wedding march.

After the ceremony and many congratulations the intimate friends and connections of the family drove out to Cedar Lane, the beautiful country home of Mr. Stein.

It was a lovely scene as the long row of carriages and smaller vehicles wended their way from the city to the scene of festivities, and the monbeams played hide and seek through the foliage of the forest trees on either side of the road.

Arriving at their destination everything was Arriving at their destination everything was found beautifully arranged, the large grove being thickly hung with Chinese lanterns and artistically festooned with many colored buntings. Upon the lawn and under the huge cases had been built two long tables which werd laden down with every delicacy the season afforded and rare fruits from tropical climes. In another part of the grove was built a nice pavilion where the followers of Terpsichore could indulge their tastes and skip the light fantastic to the fullest extent of their inclinations.

Among the dancers were the Misses Har-nish, Misses Baird, Misses O'Brien Miss Pet-tigrew, Miss Allen, Miss Moody and Miss Pitt. Mr. William Lamb was floor manager and discharged his duties in an exceedingly pleasant manner. The music was furnished by Warner.

Among the distinguished guests present were: Mayor Attkisson, Officer Smith, Dr. T. P. Matthews, Dr. W. P. Matthews, Messrs, Augustine Royal, Ben. P. Owen, Jr., Charles Walke, William Lipscomb and John Arring-

His Watch Was Stolen While He Slept-Several Other Cases.

"Tired na-ture's sweet restorer, balmy sleep." at length overcame him, and in childlike innocence he slumbered on the sleep. He finally swoke slumbered on the stoop. Sarah Vaughn has not lately been showing a proper appreciation of the hospitality extended her by numerous friends. Of course it is all right to visit your friend, smoke his cigars and then go off with half a box in your pocket, or, in visiting a neighbor by a series of delightful compliments load yourself down with a jar of sweet pickle, a few late magazines and a new article of needlework, but it amounted at least to ingratitude when Sarah would spend the night with her acquaintances and in the early morning wear off her host's shoes or such other articles from her wardrobe as could not be readily detected. John Kopland was charged with taking $5 in United States currency from John Stephens. There were a number of witnesses, and as the motley procession marched up to the dock they gave a striking illustration of Castle Garden on the arrival of an immigrant steamer. Stephens, it appeared, had some time ago passed a Confederate note upon Kopland, and on Saturday Kopland requested him to change $5 for him. Stephens cheerfully complied, but in return for his silver he received a note like the one he passed on Kopland. "He who laughs last laughs best" was fully demonstrated when the Justice declared the case dismissed.

HE FIRED HIS POSTOFFICE.

James G. Collier Arrested for Burning the Fosterville Building.

SAM JONES BACKS DOWN FOR ONCE.

The Puglistic Preacher Refuses to Meet an Opponent on the Stump in Debate. From Over the State.

FREDERICKSBURG, VA., August 18.-On June 24th last the postoffice at Fosterville, Va., near this city, was destroyed by fire. The postoffice was located in a country store run by the assistant postmaster, James G. Collier, and his brother. The small stock of merchandise was well insured, and claim was made at once for the loss sustained, which was duly adjusted by the insurance company. The postmaster, Robert A. Hughes, left Fosterville in March, 1800, a year and a half ago, and has been a resident of Fredericksburg ever since. He left the postoffice in the meantime in charge of his assistants.

The report of the burning of the postoffice and store was made to J. D. King, postoffice inspector in charge of the Washington division, in which report it was claimed that all the stamps and postoffice supplies were destroyed. stroyed.

Inspector Sprosser was detailed to investi-gate the matter, and the result is that to-day he arrested James G. Collier, charged with setting fire to the postoffice building, and he is now in jail here. It was discovered by In-spector Sprosser that one of the Colliers and Mr. L. S. Pitts slept in a room over the post-office, while James G. Collier slept in a house about 200 yards opposite the store. On Monday, June 22d, the Collier that slept over the postoffice went away on a visit, but before going asked Pitts to sleep in the house with his brother, the assistant postmaster, and "Jim" insisted also that Pitts sleep with him. He did so on June 22d and the night of the fire, June 23d, Jim Collier treated Pitts quite liberally from a whisky bottle on the night of the 23d, something new for him to do. During the night Pitts reached over in bed and discovered that Jim was not there, but he was too sleepy to get up and look for him.

Farly in the morning of the 24th "Jim" Collier awoke Pitts and told him look out the window; that the store had been destroyed by fire during the night and that everything in it was burned up. Pitts' first exclamation was that his new suit of clothes perished in the flames, but was comforted by Collier, who informed him that he had brought the new suit over to the house, together with other things from the room above the postoflice, and thus saved them from the fite.

The evidence against James G. Collier, the assistant postmaster, is very strong, and the penalty under the Virginia State laws for ar-son is decidedly severe. Other arrests are Another of the Four "Marked Men" May Whip Off His Enemies...The Farmers' Alliance Part in the Move.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 18 .- A Norfolk special to the Star says; For some time it has been known that a conspiracy was being hatched among a certain element in this State to defeat the re-election of Hon. John W. Daniel to the United States Senate. The next Legislature will elect his successor, his term expires March 4, 1898, and the plan which has been very quietly working is to get as many anti-Daniel men nominated by the Democrats as possible for the Legislature.

It has been stated that the opposition to Senator Daniel originated with and was being worked up by the Farmers' Alliance; that they wished to supplant him by electing one of their own members, as was done in Kansas and South Carolina, and as was attempted in North Carolina. It is a little curious that the four "marked men" in these four States should be four of the most widely known and most popular of senators—Ingalls, Hampton, Vance and Daniel.

But although the Alliance succeeded in retiring those powerful men, ingalls and Hampton, they found Vance and Daniel too much for them, and the weight of opinion is emphatically to the effect that Daniel will whise of his average is the State.

whip off his enemies in this State. BEVERLY, NOT FITZ, LEE, Colonel Beverly is the gentleman who is most prominently named as the would-be successor of Senator Daniel.

It has been stated by some of the news-papers that General Fitzhugh Lee might en-ter the lists against Major Daniel, but this is not probable, because the two gentlemen are strong personal friends. There is no doubt that General Lee has decided to re-enter politics, but it is believed he will seek re-elec-tion to the governorship and not senatorial honors. He can get the former office without any trouble if he wants it.

His Companions. The escape from instant death of Professor Samuel A. King, of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Hunt, who accompanied the Mrs. Sherman Hunt, who accompanied the aeronaut on his balloon voyage from Manhattan Beach, Col., on Sunday, is considered almost a miracle. It was nearly 6 o'clock when Sherman Hunt and Mrs. Mary Johnston, of Arvarda, who had determined to make their wedding trip by balloon, appeared in the enclosure near the tossing gas bags. The words that made them man and wife were pronounced by Justice Talbot. and wife were pronounced by Justice Talbot and the couple announced themselves ready and the couple announced themselves ready for the voyage. Professor king steeped into the basket, followed by the newly wedded couple, and a moment later the balloon shot upward. Noballast nor anchor was taken, in order to give the ship greater bnovancy.

The people cheered and shouted as the air, ship arose higher and higher. Big black clouds covered the sky and the lightning flashed and flickered. The bride waved her handkerchief and kissed her hand to the multitude below until her form became indistinct. Suddenly the larger of the two balloons attached to the basket appeared to grow small. It had, in fact, burst, and immediately afterward the basket, when at an altitude of one and a half miles above the ground, began descending at frightful speed. frightful speed.

miles above the ground, began descending at frightful speed.

A groan of horror went up from the crowd as the descent of the balloons became faster each minute. They soon disappeared from view and the people returned to their homes impressed with the belief that the voyagers had been dashed to pieces. The balloonists, however, were very much alive. When the rapid descent began the professor told them they would get to the grounds without being killed, but to do everything possible to ease the shock. He knew it would be a tremendous one, and directed them to get astride the basket and cling to the ropes. This they did, and he did likewise, dropping at a terrific rate of speed, faster than the balloonist ever traveled before.

Down the balloon dropped until it struck the ground with a tremendous crash near Fort Logan. Everything was dark, and the occupants of the basket, or rather the three matride of its sides, were scattered pell mell over the ground. The matried couple on picking themselves up found that they had escaped injury, hot even a scratch being visible. Frofessor King, however, owing to his age and
